THIS FORENOON.Rockford Murderer Pays the Penalty of His Crime.HIS BLOODY HANDS ARE COLD
IN DEATH.An Immense Crowd Saw the Brutal Slayer of His Two Innocent Sisters Landed Into Space—The Culprit Was Deadly Pale, But He Died Resigned.ROCKFORD, March 16.—[Special].— John Hart's soul was launched into eternity this morning, and the hands that were stained with the life blood of two innocent sisters are cold in death. The hanging took place inside a stockade over which Will Reynolds' cir-cous tent was stretched. The gallows had been built by a Chicago expert, and everything was in readiness at the appointed time. Hart was resigned to his fate but was deathly pale. He has been running down in weight of late, though at first he was not worried. There were many spectators present, among them being City Marshal Appleby, of Beloit.The crime for which Hart was hanged was most brutal, he shooting his two sisters last September. He played the insanity dodge at his trial, but it was too gauzy and he was convicted. Public sentiment was strongly against him and the people all breathe easier now that he is dead.

THE BLAND BILL HAS PASSED.

Seigniorage Scheme Will Soon Be in the President's Hands.WASHINGTON, March 16.—The Bland seigniorage bill has passed the senate day by a majority of 13. The vote was by rollcall and resulted in 44 yeas, 31 nays. The bill will be sent to the resident to-day for his approval.
Whether he will sign or veto it remains to be seen. The belief is that he will sign it, though some persons think that he will allow the bill to become a law without his signature.There were several surprises in the course of voting, one of the most notable being the division between the New York senators, Hill and Murphy.
When the name of the former was called he announced that he was paired with the senator from Rhode Island, Mr. Dixon. Had that gentleman been present he would have voted against the bill. Senator Murphy voted against the bill, and so did Messrs. Gibson and Gorman of Maryland. Here is the vote in detail: Yeas, 44; democrats, 30; republicans, 11; independents, 3.
Nays, 31; democrats, 10; republicans, 21.The pairs were: Camden, for, with Gray against; Hill, for, with Dixon against; Jones (of Nev.) for, with Hoar against; Vance, for, with Sherman against. Senators Squire and Cameron did not vote. Wednesday Squire voted in favor of the bill and Cameron was paired in its favor.Voting began promptly at 2 o'clock, and within a quarter of an hour the bill had passed and was ready to be sent to the executive mansion for the President's concurrence, if he should see fit.The bill was taken up by the senate at 12:30. Mr. Carey of Wyoming concluded his argument, begun before adjournment Wednesday, and was followed by Mr. Dubois of Idaho, who said that though in favor of the bill he thought it did not go far enough.Mr. Mitchell (rep. Ore.) made an earnest plea for the passage of this bill.
He would vote for the bill, not because it met with his full approval, not because it went to the extent to which silver legislation should go, but because it was a step in the right direction.At 2 o'clock Senator Harris asked that the bill be put upon its final passage in accordance with the agreement arrived at several days ago.The senate then took up and passed some unimportant business and at 4:10 p. m. adjourned until Monday.

The Long Pension Case.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The pension case of Judge Charles Long of Michigan will again come up in the Equity court of the district, within a short time, in the form of an application for a permanent mandamus to prevent the commissioner of pensions from reducing the pension. Judge Long's counsel will commence in a few days the taking of depositions inMichigan, to support the allegations which will be made in the application.
In case of the dismissal of the suit by Judge Cox of the Equity court an appeal will be taken to the District Court of Appeals and from there to the United States Supreme court.

Lead Producers Dissatisfied.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The lead producers of the west are not entirely satisfied with the provision in the tariff bill looking to the levying of a duty on lead ore when mixed and imported with silver ore. It is understood that the lead men insist that a provision shall be inserted in the bill which will insure a careful assay of the ore and which will prevent any large shipments of lead and silver together unless the proper proportions are known, so that a sufficient duty can be levied.

Fleet for the Behring Sea.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The navy department has begun to purchase stores and prepare for equipping the Behring sea fleet, which will comprise thirteen vessels. Four of these are revenue-marine vessels, the Rush, Corwin, Bear and Grant. These will be reinforced by the steamers Albatross, Adams, Mohican, Alert, Ranger, Yorktown, Concord, Petrel and Bennington.

Details of Administration.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The administrative features of the tariff occupied the attention of the senate finance committee at its early session yesterday. There is apparently a tacit understanding that the bill shall be reported as soon as its administrative features are disposed of. The committee resumed its sitting at 3 o'clock.

American Warship to Go to Bluefields.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Secretary
Herbert yesterday cabled Admiral Benham at Rio to proceed immediately with one of the vessels of his squadron to Bluefields, Nicaragua, to watch over American interests there. Although no vessel was designated in the order the San Francisco probably will depart on the mission.

To Increase the Engineer Corps.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Chief Engineer Melville asks congress to increase the engineer corps of the navy to 300 men, claiming that many positions are unfilled because of lack of engineers.

Henry L. Dawes Ill.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Ex-Senator
Henry L. Dawes of Massachusetts was stricken suddenly ill to-day while on a visit here. It is thought to have been a stroke of paralysis.

THE FLOODS IN IDAHO.

Total Loss Probably Will Not Exceed $100,000.—Trains Delayed.BOISE, Idaho, March 16.—The damage from Indian Creek flood is not so bad as reported. Ten thousand dollars will make the dam as good as ever, and this can be done in time to provide water for the prune trees.
The town of Nampa was damaged to the extent of $30,000, and the railroad company $50,000.
The water has subsided. The Mountain Home reservoir is all right. All the railroad bridges between Caldwell and Bisnaka are either washed out or damaged so that railroad traffic will be suspended for a number of days.
It is still raining, and all the rivers are rising rapidly.PORTLAND, Ore., March 16.—The Union Pacific officials have received word that the washout that occurred at Cascade Locks, about forty miles from here, carried away the fill about forty-five feet long and fifty feet deep,
leaving the track suspended in the air.

NEWS FROM HAWAII.

Proposed Measure for the Calling of a Constitutional Convention.SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 16.— Honolulu advices say that a rumor was afloat on Sunday, March 1, that martial law was to be declared on Monday. The report was denied, but it is believed the government fully intended to issue such a proclamation. It is known that some fears were felt by the government that, if news of a nature unfavorable to the royalist cause should arrive the royalists would make a last desperate attempt to restore the queen, and the government was ready to take the step to prevent trouble.The constitutional convention will consist of eighteen members besides the eighteen members of the councils, which practically gives the councils
a controlling voice in the deliberations.

Killed the Bombthrower.

PARIS, March 16.—A dynamite bomb was exploded yesterday inside the chief entrance of the Church of La Madeleine. The man who threw the bomb was killed by the explosion and a number of others were seriously injured.The new outrage denotes a combined plan, showing that the conspirators have directed their bombs against magistrates, witnesses and theatergoers in order to terrorize the upper classes, and against the cafes in order to terrify the middle classes and paralyze business.The prefect of police believes the dead bomb thrower is Rabardy, the man the police have so long been searching for.

Lynched in Pennsylvania.

SCRANTON, Pa., March 16.—The negro Puryear, who was in jail at Stroudsburg for the murder of Christopher Ehlers, escaped during the night. He was captured soon afterward and the crowd that gathered lynched him.SOLDIERS PITTED AGAINST POLICE.THE CITY OF DENVER IS UN-DER MARTIAL LAW.Everything Is Quiet, But There Is No Telling When the Outbreak Will Come.—Citizens Want the Matter
Settled by Arbitration—Militia vs.
Officers.DENVER, March 16.—[Special].—Everything is quiet this morning, but no telling when the trouble will break out. The citizens want the matter to be arbitrated by the superior courts.
When Gov. Waite yesterday attempted to install his new appointees on the fire and police board he was met by an armed force of police and deputy sheriffs, and a bloody affray was barely averted by the arrival of the federal troops and the intervention of prominent citizens.
The governor withdrew his forces at nightfall and issued the following proclamation:"All companies of the National Guard of Colorado are hereby notified to be in readiness at the inspection armories to respond to call to come to Denver, which will be issued Friday of this week.

"DAVIS H. WAITE, GOVERNOR.

"Denver, Colo., Thursday, 9 p. m."
The withdrawal of the state troops from the scene of action was the result of a conference between Gov. Waite and Adjutant-General Tarsney, at which it was decided that it would be impossible to take the city hall with the force at hand without great and unnecessary loss of life. To-day the governor will call all the troops of the state to Denver, and to-morrow he will renew his attempt to install the new police commissioners in office. Gen.
McCook will confer with the governor at 9 o'clock and will then decide upon his line of action.The governor marched 200 milita-men to the city hall, planted two twelve-pound guns and two Gatlings, and demanded a surrender of the two members of the fire and police board who refuse to be removed. The city hall was occupied by armed men and the windows and roofs of adjacent buildings were crowded. The streets held thousands of men and women, with whom were mingled several hundred deputy sheriffs in sympathy with the old board. The governor's demand was defied and he then either had to order an assault or withdraw his troops. As the people could not be driven away from the neighborhood an assault meant the unavoidable murder of many persons and the probable annihilation of the small militia force. The governor notified Brigadier-General A. McD. McCook, commanding the United States troops at Fort Logan, that the city was in a state of siege and insurrection had passed out of his control. Gen. McCook in the interest of peace brought five companies of the Seventh infantry in from Fort Logan at 8:05 and at 8:45 the governor ordered his militia to the armory. A warrant has been sworn out for Gov. Waite's arrest for contempt of court, but it has not been served. The next grand jury will be asked to indict him.Gen. McCook announces that he will preserve the peace absolutely and will permit no armed or other interference with the regular course of the law.
This is equivalent to leaving the old board in peaceful possession of the Fire and Police departments until ousted by the courts.For two or three hours the situation was most critical. Three different times notice was given the board that the guns half a block away would open fire in thirty minutes. The board sent back word each time to shoot away.
The militia found it utterly impossible to clear the streets in which there were 20,000 people, including hundreds of women and children.
These people simply stood still until forced back inch by inch by squads with fixed bayonets. It took two hours to clear a little more than half a block on Fourteenth street and even then Larimer street in front of the city hall remained crowded with people, as were all the side streets and alleys and the windows and roofs of buildings for blocks around. The windows of the city hall itself were filled with officials and spectators, who did not move despite the warlike messages.Gen. McCook ordered out his troops first and notified Washington afterward. His action averted danger of bloodshed. He declares he will stand by the governor.The regulars remain encamped at the depot and the militia have gone to their homes, except twenty men who sleep in the armory. The police guard holds the city hall.Talking to the chamber of commerce people Gov. Waite said he expected to be arrested and also to be assassinated.
Gen. McCook, Chief of Police Stone and Sheriff Burchinell were in conference last night.Gov. Waite refused to make any statement further than that he has withdrawn his troops for the night.
What his next step will be he would not say.It seems the state troops were withdrawn by Gov. Waite on the recommendation of Gen. McCook, who said the government troops would preserve order and prevent a conflict. At 9:30 the troops turned in for the night, the crowds had dispersed, and the usual quiet reigned.

AGNES HERNDON comes next.

FAIR MADELINE P.
TELLS HER STORY.SAYS THE COLONEL PROMISED
TO MARRY HER.She Testified in Her Own Behalf This Morning—Mrs. Sarah Green, Who Knew "Curnel Breckenridge Sence Durin' Befo' De Wah," Swears to
Some Bad Things.WASHINGTON, March 16.—[Special].— Miss Pollard went out on the stand this morning in her own behalf and told of Senator Breckenridge's promise to marry her. Sarah Guess's story created a sensation.According to the woman's story she had been born a slave in Alabama fifty-six years before, had lived in Lexington "sence durin' the wah" for twenty-five or twenty-six years, a slight discrepancy in the matter of time. She testified that Col. Breckenridge and Miss Pollard had lived at her house as man and wife. The pair had visited her house about fifty times, she said. Miss Pollard had never come there with any one else but Col.
Breckenridge.Then the witness caused a sensation by relating that Col. Breckenridge had visited her last summer after the suit had been filed, had told her he hoped she would have nothing to do with the case, and she had replied that she must tell the truth. Col. Breckenridge had inquired where Mary Scott and Mary Wilson, two domestics in the house, were, saying that he wanted them kept out of the way. He had also asked if Miss Pollard ever came to the house with Col. Swope and witness had assured him that he was the only man Miss Pollard had ever met there. The visits of Col. Breckenridge and Miss Pollard to Sarah's house, the witness testified, had extended over a period of three or four years.

MAY CALL OUT TROOPS.

Massillon Alarmed at the Growth of Coxey's Army of Peace.MASSILLON, Ohio, March 16.—Men from every part of the country are heading into Massillon to join Coxey's army of peace, which is to march on Washington. Coxey, who was on the street this morning early, made a very conservative speech to a chance gathering of his retainers, in which he told them that they would be tempted in every manner to break the laws while en route to Washington, and that anything of this sort would be fatal to the cause.It is said that Coxey's conservatism has been caused by telegrams from Pittsburg friends, who have advised him that an anarchist outbreak is expected when he and his ragged regiment move through that city, and that the party of disorder is already preparing to take advantage of his march.Gov. McKinley is understood to be in communication with several of the citizens of Massillon upon the situation, and if more men come into town the chances are that the militia will be called out and Coxey's army nipped in the bud before it leaves the city.

SHOT THE FIRST REBEL.

Death of the Chicagoan Who Killed
Ellsworth's Slayer.WASHINGTON, March 16.—Francis Edwin Brownell of Chicago, the man who shed the first drop of rebel blood in the war for the preservation of the American union, died here yesterday. Brownell was a private in the Ellsworth Zouaves and was with that company when it went to Alexandria, Va., the day after the ordinance of secession was passed. Mr. Jackson, proprietor of the Marshall house in that city hoisted the confederate flag over the building. Capt. Ellsworth went to the hotel and hauled it down.
When on the stairway he was shot dead by the proprietor, Jackson, who in turn was promptly shot and killed by Brownell. Brownell was awarded a medal of honor by congress for his act. He was also presented medals and other tokens by citizens of Troy, N. Y., New York city, Boston and Providence.

Fighting for McKane's Release.

NEW YORK, March 16.—An ineffectual attempt was made before Judge Lacombe in the United States Circuit court yesterday to secure a writ of habeas corpus for John Y. McKane on the ground that McKane is restrained of his liberty in violation of section 2, article 4 of the constitution of the United States. Judge Lacombe dismissed the application. The attorneys declared their intention of appealing to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, and thence to the United States Supreme court if necessary.

The Alliance in the South.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 16.—Prominent alliance men from several southern states are in the city to hold a meeting looking to the reorganization of the alliance in the south. They say it has drifted into politics and departed from its original purpose and usefulness. The meeting was to have been held yesterday, but was put off to to-day to await tardy arrivals.

Uncle Sam May Lose Pearl Harbor.

LONDON, March 16.—Advices received from Honolulu say President Dole declares that Hawaii may cede Pearl Harbor to Great Britain in the event of the United States proving unfriendly to the provisional government.TO HEAR BUT THREE ORDERS.
Receiver Clark Surprises the Employees of the Northern Pacific.OMAHA, Neb., March 16.—Receiver Clark of the Union Pacific sprung a bomb in the camp of the railway delegation yesterday, and one that was entirely unexpected. He said that he would confer with the engineers, train-men and telegraphers. This excludes the American Railway union, switchmen, carmen, Knights of Labor, shopmen, trackmen, car repairers and all other employees except the ones he named. This means that he will only confer with the engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and operators.
The order of Judge Caldwell expressly provided that all employees should be heard. Mr. Clark claims that none but the employees named are affected by the proposed cut, and therefore the others have no right to come into the conference. As another surprise, Mr.
Clark said that he was not bound to respect any wage schedule of the past,
as such schedules were not contracts.
The railway unions includes employees in all branches, and delegates are here from all divisions of the road. The representatives would not say what action they would take on being thus left out of the conference.It was 4 o'clock when the fourteen representatives of organized labor filed into General Manager Dickinson's office, and the conference over the wage schedule was formally opened.
Mr. Dickinson said that as Mr. Clark's physical condition was such that he could not undergo a great strain, he called in his assistant superintendent of motive power, McConnell, Superintendent of Telegraph Keary and General Manager Dickinson. Mr. Clark would preside and the hearings would be conducted as the court had directed.The wishes of the men were called for and after some discussion it was decided that the real work of the conference should be commenced at 10 o'clock to-day. At that time the grievances of the engineers and firemen will be taken up. They will be followed by the conductors and train-men, the telegraph operators coming last. There were several secret sessions of the men after the adjournment of the general conference.

WILL NOT ACCEPT A REDUCTION.

Indiana Miners Decide to Adhere to the 70 Cents a Ton Scale.TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 16.—The miners' state convention adjourned after voting 26 to 16 against accepting any reduction from the 70 cents a ton scale. The miners received a circular from the national organization giving them the privilege of making the best terms possible in their locality.SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, March 16.—One of the largest coal operators from the Jackson district said yesterday that the 4,000 striking miners will return to work Monday under the old contract. Ohio Southern railway officials have received similar information.ST. PAUL, Minn., March 16.—Several of the Great Northern conductors have arrived in the city, and others are expected to attend the conference arranged for with Superintendent Bryan in reference to a new scale of wages.
The probability is that an agreement will be speedily reached. There was a report that another general reduction was to be put into effect on the Great Northern on a basis of 33 per cent, but it was not confirmed.

Smallpox in Chicago.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 16.—Commissioner of Health Reynolds reports to the state board of health that there were 233 cases of smallpox in Chicago during the month of February. For thirteen days of this month there were 114 new cases, and at the date of this report there were 153 cases in the hospital. The state board of health will issue a circular to railroad authorities calling their attention to the necessity of having all employees vaccinated.

Another Note in a Bottle.

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 16.—A bottle was picked up near Santa Rosa island yesterday, containing a small piece of paper apparently torn from a note book, upon which was written with a pencil: "Sprung a leak and will go down in half an hour. Ten miles west of Havana. Ship Santa Marie. March 1, 1894."

Windfall for an Ohio Town.

ALLIANCE, Ohio, March 16.—A flock of twenty-eight swans caught in a storm in Irondele, near here, after vainly trying to pursue their course, were forced to earth, exhausted by the weight of hail and snow on their feathers. Citizens gave chase and succeeded in capturing the whole flock alive. The birds are valued at $100.

Trouble at Mingo Mine.

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., March 16.—Like Miller, a Knight of Labor, shot and killed Hill, a non-union miner at Mingo. William Lasley shot and seriously wounded H. Collins. The feeling between the striking knights and non-union workmen is very bitter and serious trouble may break out at any moment.

Indiana Prohibitionists.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 16.—The prohibitionist state convention was called to order at noon yesterday in Masonic hall. Efforts have been made to bring about a coalition with the populists, but they have not been successful. The populists claim a strength of over one hundred thousand in the state. The prohibitionists also claim a considerable increase in their voting membership since the last election. They will nominate a full state ticket.JANESVILLE LODGE

The fireman and two tramps who were stealing a ride on the platform of the express car were killed.

Mulet Tax Bill Not Yet Voted On.

DES MOINES, Iowa, March 16.—The house failed to reach a vote on the mulet tax bill yesterday owing to a protracted contest over the action of the speaker Wednesday in declaring the amendment which required the signatures of 65 per cent of the voters outside cities of 5,000 population and more to statements of consent carried while less than a quorum of the members voted on the question.

JACK WARBURTON MAKES ENEMIES.

EVANSVILLE PEOPLE ARE INCENSED AT THE LECTURER.

They Say He Attacked the Good and Bad Alike, and That Even Women Were Slurred—Ransom Griffin Makes an Assignment—Law and Order League.

EVANSVILLE, March 16. Lecturer Jack Warburton has gone, and no very great amount of grief is felt. While he devoted his energies to the abuse of the blind pigs all was well, for the great majority felt that nothing could be said on that subject that would be out of place, but when he made bitter personal tirades against some of our best citizens, and indulged in vulgar allusions to ladies in the audience, public sentiment demanded a halt. There are a couple of private billiard halls in this place, but at neither of these places is any liquor drinking, gambling, or boisterous conduct of any kind allowed. Yet these places the honorable (?) Jack denounced almost as roundly as he did the liquor shops. Many in Evansville have had enough Warburtonism. Ransom Griffin made a voluntary assignment yesterday. Dull times and slow collections were the cause. The amount of liabilities and assets are not yet fully known, but the assignee, W. R. Phillips, thinks all claims will be paid in full. The Citizens Law and Order League, started a few nights ago, is gaining in numbers rapidly. The avowed intention of this league is to strictly enforce the laws against liquor selling and gambling. Mat. Br. derick and Cassius Gleave were arrested a few days ago for illegal liquor selling.

HAVE LEAF SORTED IN MILTON.

Farmers Pay $1.10 a Hundred and "Sizers" Get Regular Democratic Pay.

MILTON, March 15.—Many Milton farmers are having their tobacco sized and packed by local warehouses at a cost of $1.00 to $1.20 per hundred, cases included. The "sizers" are paid forty cents per hundred and have hard work to make a dollar per day. Professor Crandall was assisted in his recent concert by the following violinists: Arthur W. Hardegree, of Watertown, Miss Hattie E. Crandall, of Madison, and Elmer W. Crandall, of Milton Junction. The collegians were a very busy lot of mortals Monday and Tuesday. They were taking examinations for the term and on the outcome depends their advancement in next term's classes. Republicans are waking up on the circuit judge question. Du Lac lodge conferred the initiatory degree at their last meeting. Visiting brothers were present from Beloit, Janesville, Whitewater, Edgerton, Lima, Busseyville, Juda and Milton Junction. Root has accepted a position in the drugstore of F. H. Bilyer at Merrill and will begin work early in April. The Merrill druggist has secured a competent clerk in the person of Frank J. H. ### SHOPIERF IS FOR J. E. GLEASON.

Want the LaPrairie Man Named For Sheriff—Fishing Is Poor.

TIFFANY, March 16.—Sowing gardens, plowing and preparing the ground is in order, and farmers are beginning farm operations. The tobacco acreage will be largely decreased. A good many of his neighbors would like to see the name of J. E. Gleason head the republican county ticket for sheriff next fall. He has the energy and business ability that is necessary to the office. Rev. E. M. Dunn, of Milton will deliver his popular lecture on "Marriage" at the Congregational church in Shopiere, on Wednesday evening March, 21. The known ability and humorous style of the speaker promises a rich treat. The Methodist church will give an Easter concert on Sunday evening the 25. Walter Kenyon was hurt by a runaway last Monday. The schools all close this week. Fishing is reported poor in the creek. Fish ways are needed from Rock river to Delevan lake. Where are our game stewards, and why did they permit night speering in Lake Koshkong all last fall? It was going on there every favorable night.

Mrs. Alice Butts Lord.

Mrs. Alice Butts Lord, wife of William Lord, died in Chicago, Feb. 26, 1894 of cancerous consumption in the forty-fourth year of her age. For six months she suffered intensely from her disease, but passed away as quietly as one going to sleep. Her body was brought to Milton Junction and buried in the cemetery there among her kindred. The funeral services, conducted by President Whitford of Milton College, were held near the Junction at the residence of George H. Butts, a cousin of the deceased. Excellent music was furnished by a choir from the village. There were present from abroad her husband, mother and niece from Chicago, and two nephews Charles N. Flagler of Lima Springs, Ia. and Ira S. Flagler of Oskan, Ia. A goodly number of her other relatives and acquaintances living in the vicinity of Mr. Butts, were in attendance. As the corpse lay in the coffin, it appeared most beautiful and peaceful. Mrs. Lord was born and reared in the town of Harmony, Rock county, the daughter of Charles and Lydia Butts. She was the last of five children all of whom have died in youth or middle age. She was a student for several years of Milton college, where she won the esteem of her teachers and the love of many young people. She was a most amiable woman, enterprising in her work, attractive in her personal appearance, affectionate in her associations with her intimate friends, and helpful in her relations of life. She will be greatly missed in her home circle and among a wide circle of those who knew her and loved her.

JOHN WARD HURT AT A BRIDGE.

C. & N. W. Freight Brakeman Had His Head Caved in Yesterday Afternoon.

With the front part of his head caved in, and unconscious from loss of blood, Brakeman John Ward was found lying on the top of a Chicago & Northwestern box car at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The "black bridge" north of the city had caught him as he stood on the car roof, and he was not known to be hurt until the train reached the Janesville yards. He was helped down from the car top, but was so weak that he could not stand. A telephone call was sent to the east side engine house, and the patrol ambulance was summoned. Ward was taken to Dr. Palmer's office, but the doctor being away, Dr. J. F. Pember dressed his injuries.

Ward was standing on top of a high car, he having raised up after the car had passed the "tell tail" or the guards to warn the brakemen that a bridge was near. Before he realized it his head had come in contact with the heavy timbers. By a fortunate chance he was not knocked from the train, but lay on the roof, otherwise he would have been cut to pieces. Ward is a Canadian and has been rail-roading two years. He boards at 109 North Jackson street.

A. J. Wilbur, the cashier at the C. & N. W. depot is laid up with quincy and Alvah Hemmens is attending to cash.

THESE ARE THE MEN FOR US TO DEFEAT.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS AS MADE LAST NIGHT.

If the Comparative Attendance at the Caucuses Is Any Criterion, There Won't Be Enough Democratic Voters To Be Worth Counting—Work of the Caucuses.

If there are as few democrats in comparison as attended the ward caucuses last night there won't be enough opposition to republicans to be worth counting. Take the Second ward for instance. One hundred and ninety nine votes were cast in the republican caucuses and only fifty-five in the democratic. It was with some difficulty that an organization was perfected, on account of no one being willing to accept the chairmanship. John W. Richardson was first elected, but declined; then ex-City Clerk Joseph Wallace was nominated and he objected to occupying such a prominent position. The chair was then had over to E. B. Wixom, who also refused to occupy it, and shoved it over to John Doran, who tipped it toward J. C. Scott.

"Gentlemen, fearing that some may think that there are no democrats left in the Second ward, I will accept 'the chair,'" said Mr. Scott, and then the caucus proceeded, there not being enough present to prevent the smooth running of the machine.

Quite a short little fight developed in the Fifth ward between Ed. Smith and M. J. Conroy, the two rival night watchmen. Conroy won the nomination on the first formal ballot and Smith will run independent. Third ward delegates to the city convention were instructed to endorse Mr. Murphy for city treasurer. ### A Wonderful Woman.

There are few actresses who possess the great versatile talent that seems so natural to Agnes Herndon, and who adapt themselves so completely to whatever roles they undertake to portray. "La Belle Marie" is particularly suited to this great artist, being written expressly for her, and Miss Herndon is afforded a splendid opportunity for some strong and intense work in the play. She is one of the very few actresses who are equally at home in comedy as well as pathos or emotional parts, and with such an artist in the leading role the play is sure to receive proper production. The dual role of "Jean Ingleside" and "La Belle Marie" is an exceedingly difficult one, and her great success in portraying two such contrasting parts as a trusting, innocent country girl and a French woman of the world is most creditable to her. Her quick transitions from gaiety and love to fury and hatred, honest expression to deceit, and French accent to English, with facial expressions and manners, displays remarkable and versatile power. The costumes worn in the play by Miss Herndon are said to be of rare taste and elegance and will certainly please the ladies. We predict for her on her appearance Tuesday evening, March 20, an audience limited only by the capacity of the house.

MACHINE IS READY TO KILL CYCLONES.

WONDERFUL INVENTION OF A FRENCH GENIUS.

Automatic Aerial Torpedoes for the Purpose of Quieting the Destructive Winds—Power to Be Tested in the Near Future.

[Paris Correspondence.]

HE "PARA-TORNADO," or tornado destroyer, is the name of a machine or contrivance which may well take rank as one of the most ambitious inventions of the age. The power of this new weapon against a terrific enemy has not been tested yet. First, because it is scarce a month since the brain of the inventor designed it, and, second, because there have been no tornadoes available hereabout to destroy.

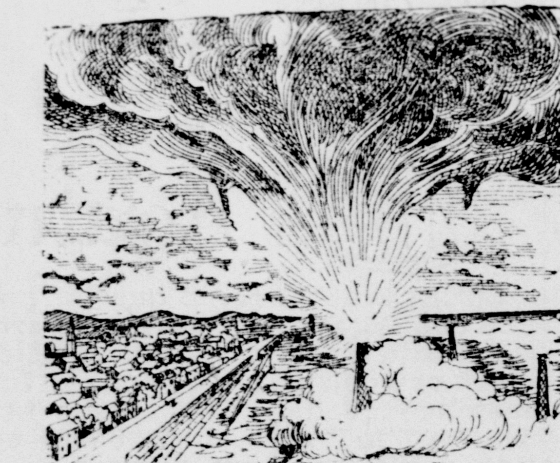

Eugene Turpin has quite recovered from the effects of the long imprisonment from which he was released a few months ago—an imprisonment, by the way, which is a most serious blot upon the records of French justice. Turpin was finally released on the ground that he was innocent of the treason of which he had been condemned. Even his liberty was grudgingly given him. There has been no apology and not even any recompense for his important invention which the French government is using. Turpin himself is confident, however, that there is retribution in store for some of his enemies.

It is not generally known outside of France that the inventor of mellinite is as great a student of meteorology as of chemistry. He has a book upon the subject now in press, and in that volume he will explain his plan for robbing the tornado of its terrors. The unusual number and great destructiveness of these phenomena in America the past season, he told me, had suggested to him the pressing importance of coping with the evil.

"The oldest theory of the tornado, you know," he said, "is that the funnel-shaped cone is formed by the sucking up of a current of air. Faye, who is one of our best European authorities, holds just the opposite theory. Your Lieut. Findlay of the United States weather bureau confirms Faye, or at least he declares that nearly all tornadoes are formed in the upper layers of the atmosphere. I have been studying the subject closely since 1884, except when compelled to abandon my investigations owing to my financial troubles. I shall discuss all current theories regarding these terrific phenomena in my forthcoming book, review as carefully as possible the record of destruction of life and property by tornadoes, and shall try to offer something practical in the way of safeguard against the evil.

"It is no small thing, of course, to struggle with the atmosphere. Except the earthquake, the tornado is the most formidable phenomenon of nature. Nevertheless I have an idea which I believe will, if put in practice on a large scale in the United States, yield almost complete protection against its dangers. It would be folly, of course, to attempt to attack the tornado itself, but it is not impossible to attack it if you only wish to interrupt it in case it should attempt to follow a certain path. For a long time the general habits or laws of tornadoes were unknown. The records of the United States weather bureau show us that tornadoes in America always travel from the southwest to the northeast. This being established, it is comparatively easy to face the enemy, because you know from just what direction he will come. The dangerous extent is only an eighth of the points of the compass; that is, if you protect a town on its southwest boundary for one-eighth of its circumference it will be tornado proof.

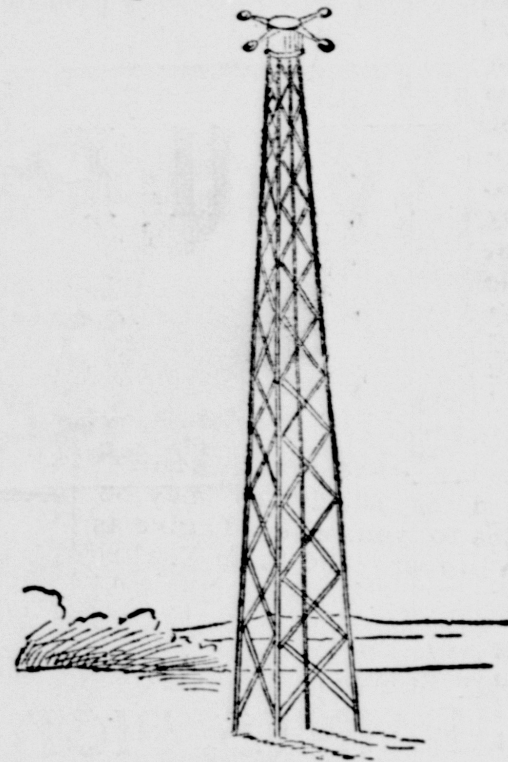

"It is a well-known fact that a waterspout at sea collapses instantly if a heavy gun is fired. This is so well understood that nearly all ships in tropical latitudes carry a cannon for this purpose. A tornado on land, which is a phenomenon of the same nature, can be dissipated in the same way. My plan is a nutshell, then, is to establish aerial torpedoes, fixed on high light towers, like the electric light towers used in some American cities, and so placed that the explosion can only take place by the automatic action of the tornado itself. The apparatus which I have designed, and patented a few days ago, is so constructed that a wind of tornado intensity will by simple mechanical means discharge the powerful explosive with which the magazine is loaded. You know that I am acquainted with explosives, and I do not exaggerate when I say that the apparatus which I have in mind will keep in perfect working order without attention for about a century. I should use about 200 pounds of the most powerful explosive in each tower.

or pylone. The explosion would develop an immense amount of gas under enormous pressure, quite capable of destroying any tornado in its vicinity. At the same time the explosion taking place 120 feet or higher in the air would do no damage to buildings or other property lower down. The number of these towers or para-tornadoes necessary would depend upon the area and importance of the town or buildings to be protected. To furnish absolute protection it would be necessary to place them from fifty to one hundred yards apart—the minimum width of the path of a tornado—within the dangerous octant. Take, for instance, a town three miles in diameter. The dangerous octant would be about a mile along its southwest border. I would place sixty para-tornadoes in four rows along that section of the circumference. That would represent an expense of about $30,000, less, probably, than the cost of lightning rods for the same town. The principal portion of the expenses would be in the erection of the towers, which might be of either wood or iron. Five hundred dollars for each para-tornado would surely over all expense. There would, of course, be no expense of maintenance except for an occasional coat of paint. A tornado once dissipated by explosion or otherwise will not re-form within several miles, so that there is no necessity for the erection of safeguards actually within a city.

"Such is my system. When we consider that hundreds of lives and millions of property are swept away yearly in America, it really seems worth while to spend a few thousands in fighting tornadoes."

In Childhood's Happy Days.

Among the incidents of childhood that stand out in bold relief, as our memory reverts to the days when we were young, none are more prominent than severe sickness. ## A BUSINESS GIRL.

How She Convinced Her Father of Her Lessening Opportunities.

"Father, I would like to see you in the library on a matter of business."

"Very well, Viola—come along. Now, then, what is it?"

"Father, you are aware that Harry Noodenhammer has been paying me his attentions for the last year?"

"Yes, and I've felt like kicking him! The idea of a Noodenhammer daring to aspire to the hand of a Grafton!"

"He has asked me to be his wife."

"The second! Why, I'll maul the tar out of him."

"And I have almost promised," she placidly continued.

"What! What! My daughter marry a Noodenhammer working for $15 a week? Never! Go to your room while I seek this base adven—"

"Father, I want to talk straight business with you," she interrupted.

"As you are aware, this is the state of Massachusetts."

"Yes."

"Have you seen the vital statistics of the state for the last year?"

"No; of course not. The idea of that Jim Noodenhammer skulking around here after my—"

"Wait! According to statistics this state has 871,240 more females than males. There are 226,880 more marriageable girls than can find husbands, to say nothing of 182,321 widows anxious for a No. 2. The number of young men in the state earning over $15 a week and in the market is only 22,107. There are camped on the trail of these young men exactly 220,000 young women and 150,000 widows. Three out of every five children born are girls. Death removes two young men to one married man or old bachelor."

The old man turned pale and grasped a chair for support, and after a pause she continued:

"From June to October over 80,000 marriageable young women visit our watering places, and it is estimated that 31,442 of them catch husbands, thus further reducing the chances of the resident. Father, take this pencil and figure on your Viola's chances of catching another man if she lets James Noodenhammer cater away."

"Great Scott!" he gasped, figuring for a moment. Why, your chances are only one in 21,875,947!"

"Just as I figured it out myself. What shall I say to him this evening?"

"Say! Say! Why tell him you'll have him and mighty glad of the chance, and don't let him draw a long breath before you add that the ceremony can take place right after breakfast to-morrow morning, and that I'm to give you a wedding present of $5,000 in cash!"

SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY!

A Great Mistake.

A recent discovery is that headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion of the mind, etc., are due to derangement of the nerve centers which supply the brain with nerve force; that indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, wind in stomach, etc., arise from the derangement of the nerve centers supplying these organs with nerve fluid or force. This is likewise true of many diseases of the heart and lungs. The nerve system is like a telegraph system, as will be seen by the accompanying cut. The little white lines are the nerves which convey the nerve force from the nerve centers to every part of the body, just as the electric current is conveyed along the telegraph wires to every station, large or small. Ordinary physicians fail to regard this fact; instead of treating the nerve centers for the cause of the disorders arising therefrom they treat the part affected.

Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the highly celebrated specialist and student of nervous diseases, and author of many noted treatises on the latter subject, long since realized the truth of the first statement, and his Restorative Nerve is prepared on that principle. Its success in curing all diseases arising from derangement of the nervous system is wonderful, as the thousands of unsolicited testimonials in possession of the company manufacturing the remedy amply prove.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve is a reliable remedy for all nervous diseases, such as headache, nervous debility, prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

Restorative Nerve positively contains no opiates or dangerous drugs.

A STRONG TICKET.

Janesville republicans never put a better ticket in the field than they are backing this year. From top to bottom it is good. The nominees are business men—men whom it is safe to trust with any Janesville interest. They are men who are recognized as conservative and yet full of zeal for the city's advancement. The fact that it is made up in large measure of just such men gives the republican party its strength and makes the nomination of such tickets as this year's almost a matter of course. Whether matter of course or not the excellence of the 1894 ticket will be recognized at once, and an enthusiastic campaign is assured.

Great Scott! Can this be true? George Gould, son of the lamented Jay, says: "Fully half of the existing depression grows out of the unjust treatment of the railroads by legislation." If this is to be accepted as correct, what is to become of the popular idea that railroads control legislation?

The seven precedents cited by Secretary Herbert to justify his having directed naval officers to obey without question any orders issued by Paramount Blount all have one serious defect; like everything else connected with Mr. Cleveland's Hawaiian program—unjustifiable.

The democratic senators of the finance committee show how very patriotic they are by deciding that the existing treaty with Hawaii, under which the United States holds Pearl Harbor, shall be abrogated.

The most vicious class legislation and outrageous and undisguised discrimination ever proposed in congress is contained in the revised Cleveland tariff bill. Robbing Peter to pay Paul wasn't a circumstance to this bill.

Should Mrs. Dominus conclude to open a laundry at Honolulu it would be incumbent upon Mr. Cleveland to order Mr. Willis and the other U. S. officials there to patronize her.

If mint has been added to the sugar and whisky combination by the democratic senators it would have been recognized everywhere as distinctly democratic.

There are three phases of the administration policy to which General Dan Sickles has publicly declined to play cuckoo-tariff, Hawaii and pensions.

The democratic editors will have a difficult job to square their free raw material remarks with the senate-revised tariff bill.

The talk about the sugar trust not being satisfied with what the democratic senators gave it is merely for effect.

M. DOUGHERTY and his friends drew out of the democratic contest for alderman in the Fifth ward at the eleventh hour, leaving the field clear for Ed. Smith, who secured the nomination last night by acclamation.

NAPOLEON WAS IN SING SING.

Locked Up by a Keeper While on a Visit of Inspection in 1837.

It is not generally known to the world at large, says the New York Times, that Emperor Napoleon III. of France, was once behind the bars in Sing Sing prison. In the spring of 1837 Prince Louis Napoleon, afterward Napoleon III., emperor of France, made a visit to Washington Irving on Sunnyside, a little north of Irvington-on-the-Hudson, accompanied by a young French count, and escorted by Anthony Constant of Hastings. Prince Napoleon expressed a desire to visit the prison at Sing Sing, and Mr. Constant drove him there. Upon arriving at the prison, the party was welcomed by Warden Rowell, who after taking them into his apartments, explained the means that had been attended with the most successful and beneficial results in the government of the prison. The warden told the prince, who had been an interested listener, that he had a convict in the prison, a Frenchman, who was an old soldier, claiming to have fought at Waterloo and to have been in several battles with Napoleon, the first emperor. The prince naturally asked to see the man. The warden then explained that the prisoner was in a dark cell for misconduct; that it was contrary to prison rules to take him out, but as the guests were going to visit the cells he would open the door of the Frenchman's cell.

Then all followed the warden down the stairs and across the keyroom and the narrow passages to the galleries, where the cells were and are to this day. He paused at the second cell on the right-hand tier of the main galleries and unlocked and opened the door. Louis Napoleon stepped inside. The warden, with a merry twinkle in his eye, turned the key and locked him in. It was too good an opportunity to be lost. The gentlemen were amused and brimming over with fun, when, after a momentary detention, the door was opened and the noble Frenchman joined them once more. They all enjoyed the joke except the subject of it. His sallow countenance reddened perceptibly for a time and then he joined in the laugh raised at his expense.

An Epidemic of Single Legs.

A freight brakeman running out of Korn City one evening started to clear the tramps off the cars after leaving the station, and in so doing found a one-legged man stealing a ride. Taking pity on him, the brakeman told him to go back to an empty refrigerator car, lift the hatch, and crawl in. After a while the brakeman came back and found the one-legged man near where he had left him. He again told him about the refrigerator car and again went about his business. For the third time this was repeated, and then, at the fourth, the brakeman, supposing the crippled tramp did not know what a refrigerator car was, said: "Come along, and I'll show you where it is." When he reached the car he lifted the hatch, and, swinging his lantern down inside, he was astonished to see no less than three one-legged men already comfortably ensconced therein, while the fourth was ready to join them.—Argonaut.

SOME WELL KNOWN FACES.

The Governor of Florida.

The governor of Florida, Henry L. Mitchell, who attracted so much attention on account of his opposition to the Corbett-Mitchell fight, was born in Alabama.

HENRY L. MITCHELL.

He is 63 years of age. He and his wife are childless and live in a hotel in Tallahassee. Although he owns an orange grove and has been a long time in politics, he is not considered a wealthy man and lives on the salary of $2,500 which the office of chief executive of Florida pays. His only dissipation is smoking, but he is passionately fond of hunting, fishing and card playing.

Words Totally Misunderstood.

An English clergyman of great experience states that the bridegrooms of the poorer classes habitually say, when repeating the marriage ceremony after the priest: "With all my worldly goods I thee and thou" (instead of "thee and thou"). James Payn tells of a little relative who was accustomed to say his prayers at his mother's knee for years before she discovered that in the Lord's prayer he always said "Harold be thy name," instead of "hallowed," a word to which he attached no meaning whatever. In a religious newspaper, the other day, "A Schoolmaster" writes: "The paraphrase of even so well-known a devotional exercise as the creed, from the pen of a schoolboy, is often something almost incredible. I send the last that has come under my notice: 'Born unto the vergan merry, suppered unto ponchers piler.'"—Argonaut.

CHANGING WEDDING FASHIONS.

Orange Blossoms No Longer Necessary and the Veil Sometimes Omitted.

The traditional wedding customs, like many other old observances, are rapidly disappearing, whether banished by the universal skepticism or the times or neglected because the age is too busy to allow any element that is not eminently prosaic and practical, it would be difficult to say. A bride may still occasionally unconsciously advertise the novelty of her position by a collection of rice around the ribbons of her bonnet, while the groom's hat sometimes falls a victim to the too accurate aim of a well meant slipper, but the symbolic rites from which these effects result are usually performed by children and are regarded as a juvenile freak.

Orange blossoms and myrtle are often replaced by roses, lilies, violets and other flowers, equally appropriate to any occasion, while the veil is sometimes entirely omitted. The wedding cake has in part part degenerated most lamentably. Far from cutting it herself, the bride seldom even sees it, and it is brought from the confectioner's in the form of small slabs already packed in white and silver boxes tied with white ribbon and so delivered to the wedding guest after the bridal couple have departed.

The custom of dressing the bridesmaids in white is also falling into disuse, and with some show of reason, for it is entirely suitable that white should be left for the bride's toilet solely. Delicate pinks, blues and yellows not only set off by contrast her snowy apparel, but lend a superficial cheerfulness to the bridal procession, which it is well to encourage in the modern wedding, usually almost as melancholy an occasion as a funeral.

To be married in traveling costume is a convenient and offhand method, but as the white regalia is one of the few poetic survivals in an age of hard facts, and a woman can array herself in it but once in her life, it seems rather a pity when she does not wear it on the one occasion. A sketch is given of the bride's gown at a recent Paris wedding. It is of ivory white satin merveilleux and has a bell skirt with piped seams and a round train. The bottom of the skirt is trimmed with a flounce of guipure festooned with piquets of orange blossoms. The round bodice is slightly draped in front and has a wide guipure collar, while the large sleeves consist of a puff reaching to the elbow, where it is finished by a flounce of lace. A tulle veil is worn, secured by an orange spray.

PERFECT POEMS OF BONNETS.

Black Is Much In Evidence In the New Spring Headwear.

Hats are of medium size this season, and bonnets are small. The combination of black with rich carmine shades claims as prominent a place in spring millinery as it has held all winter. Black is much in evidence in all the new headgear, almost everything displayed consisting in part at least of some black material. Black lace is particularly popular, and much jet and many spangles are used. There are some pretty little bonnets in which the crown is a sort of skeleton arrangement of steel or gold and black beads, while the tiny brim consists of a frill of plaited lace, and the trimming is made up of some bits of black velvet.

LACE AND MOIRE HAT.

vet, the two inevitable mercury wings in steel or gold and an aigret of one or the other metal. Birds' bodies and wings are very little seen, and as they are easily defaced and always in bad taste it is to be hoped that they have permanently retired from popular favor. Ostrich tips are much used, and with jet and velvet are the preferred trimming.

Some fine lace straws have been brought out in black and colors, but black lace hats are most fashionable at present and a number of them are shown. The lace used is mainly of the fine, light quality or is jetted or spangled—the plain, heavy guipure so much employed of late is losing its prestige. Moire piece silk is utilized as a trimming on many of the spring hats, cut on the bias for bows or gathered to form a soft crown, and the effect is rather good. The low crown of one lace trimmed hat was quite covered by a broad silk bow set flat upon it. Beside the spangled mercury wings before alluded to, some pretty ornaments are shown composed of balls larger than a filbert, also made of overlapping spangles. These are placed on stems and mixed with the trimming and are a pleasing novelty.

A sketch is given of a hat the brim of which is composed of black lace embroidered with jet and black spangles. The soft crown is of black moire, gathered together in the middle of the top by a jet ornament. The trimming is simple, consisting of a large rosette of carmine velvet, from which spring two upright black ostrich tips.

An Actor's Mistake.

A celebrated French actor came over to England. He had studied our language carefully. His friends were a little anxious about his powers of acquiring our difficult pronunciation, but he said that he felt confident that, well made up and by gaslight, his accent would pass muster. But, alas! he was overhopeful. The crucial evening arrived, and he wanted at the most pathetic moment to exclaim, in broken voiced despair: "I shall die! I shall die! There is peace in the grave." But his histrionic powers carried him away and he forgot his carefully prepared pronunciation, and in heart-broken tones, he sobbed forth: "I shall die! I shall die! There is peace in the grave!" And then he could not understand why all the theater shouted with laughter—Lady's Pictorial.

Legal Recipe for Treating a Burglar.

The story told of a great man and very learned judge is related by an earwitness to the following effect: Justice Wiles was asked: "If I look into my drawing-room and see a burglar packing up the clock, and he cannot see me, what ought I to do?" He replied as nearly as may be: "My advice to you, which I give as man, as a lawyer, and as an English judge, is as follows: 'In the supposed circumstances, this is what you have a right to do, and I am by no means sure that it is not your duty to do it. Take a double-barreled gun, carefully load both barrels, and then, without attracting the burglar's attention, aim steadily at his heart, and shoot him dead.'"—Saturday Review.

 "Go 'long wid you now! Dat big dipper an' dat little dipper bote plum full o' dat honey, an' I spec' dat great bear done got his livin' off dat sweet stuff."—Arkansaw Traveler.

We have a nice genteel business in the heart of the city; no such chance ever before offered, for a good man and wife to earn easily a good living. We will exchange it for a good house and lot, and pay the difference in cash.

We have excellent homes at $500, $450, $1,000, $1,200, $1,500; (this one has over 2½ acres of land right in the city, with good house, barn, well, cistern, fruit, &c.); $1,750 $2,000 and so along up to $10,000.

We have seventy acres good land, but cheap, to exchange as part payment on a good home. Land free and clear and will pay some cash difference on home that suits.

We have some money to loan in sums to suit. We want one first class loan of $1,000 and another of $1,500. Five years at 7 per cent.

PIANO GIVEN AWAY TO A POPULAR GIRL

GAZETTE MAKES A $450 OFFER TO ITS FRIENDS.

Each Day a Ballot Will Be Printed, and the Young Lady Whose Name Appears on the Most Blanks June 30 Will Get the Handsomest Piano $450. Will Buy.

Some Janesville young lady will be given a $450 Shaw piano free July 1. Now everybody listen.

A $450 piano means as fine a piano as anybody in Janesville owns. And that is just the kind The Gazette means.

S. C. Burnham & Co. testify to the quality of the instrument. It is from them that the instrument is bought, and in their show window it will be displayed. By next Wednesday it will probably be in place, as it is now on the way from the east, having been ordered two weeks ago.

So valuable a prize has never been offered by a Wisconsin newspaper. By to-morrow copies of The Gazette will be "way above par."

The only limit to be imposed is that the young lady who wins the piano must be one who provides for her own support. Teacher, clerk, typewriter, milliner, dressmaker, book-keeper, it is all one, so long as she maintains herself by her own efforts.

How will the winner be named, do you ask?

By ballot.

The following coupon will be printed in the Gazette each night until the contest closes:

MISS
WIS.

The Publishers of "The Janesville Gazette" will give a $450 Shaw Piano to the Young Lady who receives the largest number of these ballots.

THE BALLOT.

Rules of the Contest.

1. Any one, anywhere in any state is entitled to vote as often as they buy a copy of The Janesville Gazette containing the above ballot.
2. Cut the ballot out (trimming on the dotted lines) Write in the name of your candidate and enclose same in an envelope addressed to Ballot Editor, Gazette, Janesville, Wis.
3. Only one person can be voted for on one ballot.
4. Until further notice the ballot will be printed in The Gazette every day.
5. The lady who receives the largest number of votes will receive as good and beautiful a piano as the Shaw Piano Company can make.
6. The contest will close June 30, 1894. Piano will be delivered as soon as the counting of votes is completed.
7. Any person who will bring The Gazette one new subscriber paid in advance will be entitled to the following number of ballots:
New subscriber paid in advance one month, 100 votes.
New subscriber paid in advance two months, 250 votes.
New subscriber paid in advance six months, 900 votes.
New subscriber paid in advance one year, 2,000 votes.

Each new subscriber who pays in advance and casts the number of votes specified is also entitled, of course, to cut coupons from the paper from day to day and vote in the regular manner.

No person will be allowed extra votes for stopping his paper and having it sent to another name at the same address.

In every instance they must be bona fide new subscribers.

We will be square with you, you must be square with us. No person will be allowed to stop his paper on Monday and start it again Tuesday and claim the premium offered.

The polls will close at 9:00 p. m., June 30, but votes handed in before this will be duly credited. The contest will be conducted strictly "on the square." No partiality or unfair advantage will be taken or allowed in any case.

Grand Spring Opening.

Saturday will be a great day at Weisend's new clothing store opposite

A WINNING TICKET FOR THE CITY.

JAMES A. FATHERS NOMINATED FOR TREASURER.

T. S. Nolan Will Be the Next City Attorney, and George Hanthorn Will Continue His Good Work as Street Commissioner—A. G. Anderson Succeeds M. M. Phelps.

Treasurer—JAMES A. FATHERS. Attorney—T. S. NOLAN. Street Commissioner—GEO. HANTHORN. School Commissioner—A. G. ANDERSON. Justice—M. P. RICHARDSON.

The republican city convention was called to order at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon by William Tuckwood of the city committee, and the convention was then organized by electing I. C. Brownell chairman, and C. E. Church secretary.

Only one ballot was necessary for city treasurer, James A. Fathers going in without opposition.

Two ballots were taken for city attorney. The second nominated T. S. Nolan, he receiving 13 votes to 10 cast for John Cunningham and 2 scattering.

The first ballot for candidate for street commissioner was scattered between George Hanthorn, who received 14 votes; M. H. Curtis 8; John Brown 1, James Croft 1, blank 1. The second ballot nominated George Hanthorn who received 10 votes, M. H. Curtis 6, Brown 2.

Four ballots were taken to nominate school commissioner, the formal ballot resulting: A. G. Anderson, 11, W. H. Judd 10, F. S. Lawrence 6.

The fourth ballot stood, Anderson 16, Judd 10, Lawrence 1. A. G. Anderson was declared duly nominated.

H. S. Sloan refused renomination as justice of the peace and eight ballots were taken. The eighth ballot resulted in the nomination of M. P. Richardson, he receiving sixteen of the twenty-seven votes cast. The remainder of the votes were scattered.

A city committee was appointed as follows:

Chairman—T. W. Goldin.
First Ward—C. E. Bowles.
Second Ward—C. D. Child.
Third Ward—H. S. Sloan.
Fourth Ward—F. A. Vankirk.
Fifth Ward—C. E. Church.

The committee was authorized to fill all vacancies that might occur on the ticket.

C. C. MCLEAN WILL NOT RUN.

This is the Declaration Made By His Brother—Political Notes.

C. C. McLean will not be the democratic candidate for city treasurer.

This announcement comes from his brother, C. P. McLean, who was authorized to so state. Mr. McLean is in Chicago attending the dog show, and sent a telegram to-day saying that he would not allow the use of his name. Chances are now good for the democratic convention to endorse Treasurer Murphy, who is the independent candidate.

OYSTERS WERE THEIR PLUNDER

IN AND OUT OF THE BOWER CITY

Griffin's Pacer is Gaining.

Yardmaster David Griffin of the C. & N. W. road has shipped his Algona pacer to L. O. Turner for training this summer. Mr. Turner drove "Grattan" the handsomest horse at the Janesville track last year, in the 2:19 race. The pacer is a full brother to Flying Jib and was showing considerable speed while Mr. Griffin was handling him. He's a stylishly bred fellow and Mr. Griffin and A. W. Longley own him together.

He—Why do you regard marriage as a failure? She—So many make use of it to get money belonging to others.

Fogg—Come, Figg, have a smoke. Figg—I'll die first. Fogg—Oh, well, every man to his liking. I'll do my smoking before I die.

Caller—Has Dr. Killquick many troublesome cases on hand? Office Boy—No, his patients never last more than three or four days.

Mrs. J.—Are there any good dry goods advertisements in the paper this morning? Mr. J.—Really, I don't know. I usually read the other part.

WHAT NEAR-BY TOWNS DID.

Janesville Money Helped a Church.

Janesville helped build the African M. E. church just dedicated in Delavan. Rev. D. W. Brown canvassed this city for contributions and used the money to buy lath and plaster, which he put on with his own hands. The pews were given by other Delavan churches. The church is about the size of a country school house, and was filled with white and colored people on the occasion of the first service. Rev. Mr. Brown said Bishop Wayman, of Baltimore, would attend in May and dedicate the new church.

Heirs to Millions in Jefferson.

A new style has been developed among many of the men of the Elkhorn 400. That is to put the coat sleeve only on the right arm, carrying the left in as comfortable a position as possible. "Ouch" is the salutation when anybody touches the seat of war.

Calves Die Seven at a Time.

A singular disease prevails among the stock of Sugar Creek farmers attacking principally last spring calves. It proves fatal in a few hours. One man lost seven, and three or four living on one street also report losses.

If Lawrence Brugger, of Genoa Junction had taken the advice of his best friends and had that bull's horns sawed off, his horse would not have been hooked to death last week by the ugly brute.

HER BABE'S DEATH MADE HER INSANE.

WHY MRS. H. S. MORGAN COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Child Was Buried in the Yard and the Mother Thought She "Heard Her Baby Calling For Her, and Felt That She Must Go"—Has Relatives Here.

Brooding and despondent because her babe had died Mrs. H. L. Morgan, daughter-in-law of Sylvester Morgan, committed suicide at her home in the town of Lima yesterday.

"I heard my child crying for me and felt that I must go, but know it is wrong," was the pathetic message that she left behind.

Some time ago diphtheria caused the death of her babe. The child was buried in the yard near the house until a vault which was to be built was finished. Mrs. Morgan has been gradually getting more and more despondent and people were not much surprised when she was found hanging in the woodshed. She formerly attended the Normal school at Whitewater. Her brother, Dr. Dean, lives at that place. She and her husband recently settled on her old home, a large fine farm. She leaves two children.

Fanny Rice Was Charming.

Fanny Rice and her unusually excellent company gave Janesville some of the most sparkling comedy that has been seen in many a day, at the Myers Grand, last evening. The company is on the Frohman order and there wasn't a poor artist on the list. Miss Rice has a charming personality and her support corresponded with her work. The house was fair when it should have been filled to overflowing.

NOTHING UNUSUAL.

That Yarn About Lightning Cavorting on Shipboard.

When the captain of the steamship Abana, from Dundee, came into port a few weeks ago and told a yarn about a ball of fire doing insane things about the decks of his ship, there were some people who heard the tale with scorn, and others who wrote poetry about it. And now here comes another Dundee skipper who tells of a similar electric display.

He is Captain Lord, of the British steamer Cromia, which lately arrived in New York from Dundee. Captain Lord says his ship encountered heavy weather from the start. Seas beat high, and the barometer dwarfed itself to 28.15.

That night there was a succession of hail squalls, and the captain asserts that during each squall every mast-head, yard-arm and gaff were ablaze with compositors, or St. Elmo's lights, as mariners prefer to speak of them. They came and went as the squalls blew and subsided, and, as these lasted throughout the night, the ship was several times illuminated with dancing tips of fire.

The ship during this time was driving before the gale with engines stopped. She was lightly laden, and the seas were swinging so high that it was found necessary to stop the engines to check the frightful racing of the propellers. Waves constantly dashed over the ship, and one of the vessel's crew was badly injured by being thrown to the deck.

Toward morning the wind fell light and then came in fitful gusts. Then the lightning got in its play, and for an hour or two the ship was in a perfect blaze of sheet lightning.

A CHECK ON THE ICEMAN.
Gas Meters and Water Meters, Why Not Ice Meters?

It was left to a Kansas City man to foil the ice man, another prolific subject for the funny men who write for comic papers seems doomed. W. B. Dickson, who by profession, is at the head of a school of shorthand, and incidentally is an author and inventor, was recently granted a patent for an ice meter, to be attached to refrigerators. It is to be known as the Dickson ice meter. By its use the consumer will no longer be at the mercy of the ice man and the ice man will no longer be compelled to listen to the complaints of his customers. The device weighs the ice as it is day by day put into the ice box and registers the weight of each day's purchase on a month's register, so that at the end of the month a look at the register will show the exact number of pounds used during that period. It indicates the exact number of pounds of ice remaining in the refrigerator at any time of the day, enabling the owner to know whether or not it is necessary to order ice. There are also other advantages attached to the use of the meter. Mr.

Dickson has received numerous inquiries about his invention and has been offered a flattering sum for it.

To Connect Chicago and the Ocean.

Engineer A. R. Sutton of Chicago is the inventor of a scheme, that appears plausible, for connecting Chicago with the seaboard. He plans to deepen the Welland canal so as to permit vessels of twenty-two-foot draft to pass a point near Thorold, Ont., and from there to cut through to the Niagara river at a point just below the rapids. Then he would deepen the St. Lawrence river and the Canadian channels along it to a point due north of Lake Champlain. Here he would cut a channel south to that lake, and from its southern point dig a canal to Troy or Albany. The Hudson river would give them egress to the ocean.

Chinese Officials.

A Chinese mandarin is not expected to have any friendships or intimacies outside of his office, and he cannot encourage visitors within its precincts without laying himself open to a charge of favoritism or corruption. If the inhabitants of a district wish to show their appreciation of an official's administration and testify to his probity, the most effective way in which they can do so is to wait upon him at one of the city gates as he makes his farewell exit and beg the gift of the official boots, which are thenceforward preserved in some temple as public property.

HOOSIERS HAVE A MONTE CARLO.

Roby's Sudden Rise to Unenviable Notoriety.

RESORT FOR CHICAGO GAMBLERS.

The "Layouts" Outlawed in the Windy City Were Taken Across the Indiana State Line, and Now 10,000 "Sports" Make Daily Pilgrimages to Roby.

That America possesses a rival to the world famous Monte Carlo is perhaps not generally known. Such is nevertheless the case, according to the New York Recorder, though the new courts of the goddess of fortune are as yet only a few weeks old. In the little Hoosier town of Roby are some of the largest gambling establishments to be found anywhere within the United States. It is estimated that no less than 10,000 persons visit the town daily for the purpose of playing at some of the games of chance which are being run without even a pretense at concealment.

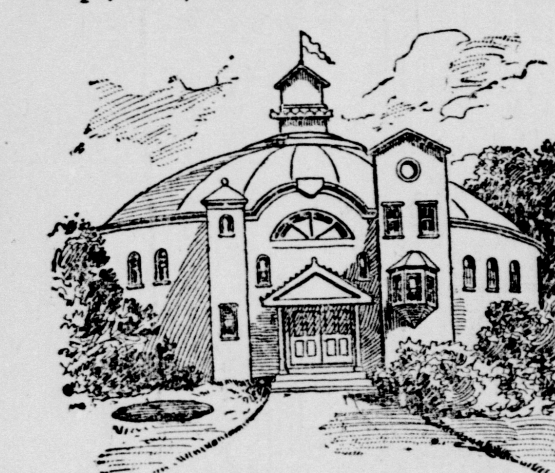

Roby is situated just over the Indiana line, east of South Chicago. It sprang into prominence a few years ago by the establishment of a race course which soon became one of the most popular near the Windy City. With the influx of racing men and sports came several shining lights in the pugilistic world. As it was difficult to arrange anything but rather tame boxing bouts within the city limits of Chicago, an athletic club was organized in Roby, and fistic encounters were of weekly occurrence. Meeting with success in these ventures, the Columbian Athletic club, as this organization was called, erected a colossal arena about a year ago to accommodate their large audiences.

The arena was, however, never used. The sheriff of Lake county, in which Roby is situated, put an end to both slugging matches and racing. This action practically killed the club. A few weeks ago Chief of Police Brennan, acting under the instructions of Mayor Hopkins, closed every gambling house in Chicago and has compelled them to remain closed ever since. Several of the gambling fraternity who still held stock in the Columbian Athletic club met and decided to move to Roby, opening establishments there.

In three days no less than 30 "layouts," including roulette, faro, keno, craps, hyronoms, hazard and various other games, were shipped to Roby and arranged in the arena of the club. Gamblers who were not members of the club hastened to secure rooms and houses in other parts of the town.

The arena is just outside the town limits on land owned by the club. It is an enormous wooden structure, nearly circular in form and painted a dull brown. One end is reserved for offices, baths and a few sleeping apartments. The remainder of the building is arranged like a huge amphitheater, with tiers of seats around the sides. In the center of this amphitheater are the gambling booths. There are no "lookouts" to be passed before one may enter this gigantic den. The heavy door swings as readily for the novice as for the professional gambler, and no questions are asked so long as the visitors conduct themselves in an orderly manner.

Within the little booths or railed inclosures are games of faro, roulette, "Old Hy," craps, keno, etc. The faro fiends seem to form the aristocracy of the gamblers, and the groups around the faro layouts are smaller and more quiet than those around the other tables. Many a man has come to Roby with a sure system to beat the faro bank and had to borrow cash to get back to Chicago. There are no poker tables in the main hall, but several of the smaller apartments have been fitted up for the "great American game."

At this newly modeled Monte Carlo play begins about 1 o'clock in the afternoon and continues until the last train leaves for Chicago, at about 2 o'clock the next morning. The amphitheater and other rooms are lighted by electricity. Arrangements are being made for heating them, these facilities being at present lacking.

But the arena is not the only place where gambling is carried on in Roby. In fact, about every third house is now occupied by members of the sporting fraternity, and games of all kinds are running. The town is crowded with sharpers. Fights, frequently attended with shooting and stabbing, are of almost daily occurrence.

For awhile the trains running to and from Roby were worked by "skin" gamblers, "three card monte" men, "thimble riggers" and the like. The railroad company has put a stop to this, however, and if one of these men dares to show his nose on board a train he is unceremoniously ejected by conductor and brakemen. The "sure thing" gamblers have now established their stands on the road leading from the town "square" to the arena and keep the constable busy driving them away. No sooner do they disappear from one spot, however, than they bob up in another, and the game goes merrily on.

Following the example set by a more eminent divine, a clergyman having a church in Roby has made an attempt to purify the moral atmosphere of the town. He started by daily visiting the arena and learning the names of several of the gamblers actively engaged in the games conducted there. He had them arrested and brought before "Squire" Merritt on the charge of being common gamblers. Two or three of the prisoners were convicted and fined $20 each, after which they returned to their stands at the arena and continued business as before. In retaliation the gamblers swore out a warrant for the too zealous clergyman, and he, too, was charged with being a common gambler. According to the laws of Indiana, a common gambler is, among other things, a person who frequents any place where gambling is permitted or carried on. To frequent a place, according to the legal meaning of the word, is to visit that place more than once within a space of two years.

The clergyman, having visited the arena several times within a very few days, was therefore a common gambler. He was liable as such to a fine, to imprisonment, or to both. The case, however, was never pressed, the reverend gentleman having desisted from his crusade.

THE HANDS AND FEET.

They Indicate Moral and Mental as Well as Physical Characteristics.

"The foot is a wonderful indicator of character," said Superintendent Byrnes of the New York police department to a Mercury reporter. "The man of honest mind and intention puts his heel down squarely and walks along in an independent but not aggressive way. The criminal generally puts his heel down cautiously and rounds out his step to the toes. Here is a picture of a thief's foot," and the great thief catcher took some papers from his pocket, and the back of an envelope drew his idea of a thief's foot.

Continuing, the superintendent said: "No matter what kind of a shoe or boot a thief wears, it will take on that rounded look and turn up at the toe. The arch of the foot is usually low, but in some cases may be somewhat raised, but the general characteristics still remain. Then, again, the hand is a great guide. The thieving hand is almost always larger in proportion than that of the honest man. If, as you can easily judge, this largeness is natural and not the result of early and constant manual labor, you will be safe in taking him for a suspicious character until you find out all about him. But it is the fingers especially that are large, and they are always spatu- lous. The nails are broad, not long, and the flesh curls up over them. They all have a broken look, not the smooth and polished appearance of the nails of the honest hand. And, by the way, there is more than nervousness the matter with people who bite their nails. It shows decidedly a vicious or criminal tendency, whether developed or not.

"Speaking generally, the locomotive characteristics of the different classes of criminals may be summed up by saying the sneak thief always moves along stealthily. The mind, which is absorbed by the sneaking thought, imparts the manner to the body. The bank burglar (who has become scarce now, but the cashiers and other official have taken this place) is about the hardest criminal to tell from appearance. He will walk with dignity, firmness and at a moderately slow gait, which, however, may, under circumstances, break into the careless or airy swagger. Still, however, there is an undefinable air about him that will call the attention of the practiced eye to him.

"The house burglar does not display outwardly the same strength of character. He possesses a combination of bank burglar and the sneak thief, the latter largely predominating. He is generally clever on his feet, and although rather small sized is well knit. He is a combination of the cat and tiger. The stealthiness of the cat helps him to get inside, and if there is danger of capture the fierceness of the tiger asserts itself, and he will kill.

"Dwelling house burglary at night should be made a capital offense, for the criminal, although his primary intention was not murder, is ready to commit murder to get away. The pickpocket is a shuffling and slouchy creature, barely lifting his feet. The cause of this is easily found. He has developed his hands to the neglect of every other limb. His hands are his tools, and his brains and his feet are only to get him into a crowd in any manner.

"The garrotter has some of the characteristics of the sneak thief and much of the firmness and determination of the first class burglar. The sneaking instinct helps him to crawl upon his victim unawares, and the determination of the burglar enables him to carry out the robbery. But, except when occasion requires, he relapses into the sneak thief's manners and attitudes.

"Every man carries about himself an atmosphere that, to a more or less degree, reflects the inner man. In some men the outward indications or marks of character are as plain as the stars in the heavens at night. In others they are nebulous, but still there. An over or greatly developed chin is another mark that may be looked for in a desperate criminal. It is nature's revelation of strong animal instincts which may at any time overpower the moral senses to lead to crime. Very low and very high foreheads are equally bad, because both are abnormal.

"When you find a man the top of whose head rounds in smoothly oval like an egg, you have a fellow dangerous to any community in which he may live. He will have brains for scheming and organizing plans, but no conscience or moral susceptibilities to restrain him. He will not commit crimes by violence, but by scheming."

A Baltimore Sensation.

The recent indictment in Baltimore of Dr. John D. Kremien for poisoning John Farre and forging his will has created something of a sensation in the Monumental City. Farre had accumulated $6,300 during 20 years' work at the shoemaker's bench.

DR. JOHN D. KREMIEEN.

Dr. Kremien attended him during his last illness and after his death presented to the court what purported to be Farre's will, bequeathing his property to Mrs. Kremien. The doctor rendered a bill of $2,500 against the estate for medical services, although he only attended the deceased for six days. This and other strange circumstances aroused suspicion. It was learned that Farre had relatives in Philadelphia and elsewhere, and when his body was exhumed enough corrosive sublimate was found in it to kill a regiment of men.

The case threatens more startling developments, as Dr. Kremien is now suspected of killing Carl Mueller, another patient who died under his care and was found to have been poisoned.

ONE GIRL'S FUNERAL.

In the Early Days of Montana Was Different From Most Funerals.

During the construction days of the Northern Pacific railroad many small towns were born that flourished until the road was built—then died. The little story following actually occurred, and made an impression on me that I shall never forget, says a writer in the Orting Oracle. To me there was a tinge of sadness that went straight to the heart. I occupied the exalted position of justice of the peace. Now a justice of the peace in Montana in early days was a bigger man than the chief justice of the United States is to-day, and had a perpetual variety of entertainment. He marries people, buries the dead, puts out fires, takes a drink with everybody, settles family rows, preaches, makes speeches, and must be ready for any kind of work. For this aggregation of duties he is called judge; but if he renders a wrong decision his name is Dennis.

One cold morning I was waited upon by a delegation of gamblers and informed that one of the girls was dead. They said she had passed in her cheeks during the night, and as she was the slickest girl in the camp she was to have a 24-carat send off and no mistakes. I went around to see the body to find out, if possible, the cause of her death. I was satisfied that the girl had taken morphine and died from the effects, and so I rendered my decision, which satisfied all. I set the hour for the funeral, and returned to the cabin to prepare my remarks. There was not a bible in the camp, and so I had to play it alone. It was a cold, stormy Montana winter day, and that added much to the sadness of the occasion. The grave was dug out among the pines, and a more God-forsaken place it would have been hard to find, but it was the best we had or could get.

The hour arrived, the procession formed, myself in front of the pallbearers, consisting of gamblers, with the body in a rough pine box. Next came the girls of the town and the business men in the rear. We wended our way slowly to the last resting place, where, alone and unknown, amid the rocks and pines, with the awful stillness of the mountains, all that was earthly of that unfortunate girl would stay until the last day.

No one could pray, no one could sing. I poured out my soul to my God in my poor stumbling way—told him all about it. We were unanimous in the belief that she was more sinned against than sinning, and would He in His infinite goodness and loving kindness forgive her, wipe out all the black spots on her soul, forget her past and save her for her soul's sake? Would He suspend all rules, throw open wide the portals of heaven, have sweetest music played on a thousand golden harps, and bid that poor tired, sin-stained soul enter the realms of happiness, purity and rest?

It was our funeral because everybody did all they could. There were but few of all kinds, to be sure, but humans with souls to save. There are many of the old boys scattered through the Northwest who will recollect that stormy Montana day, and how we knocked at eternity's door for admittance for that girl's soul, and all will agree that our knocking was not in vain—that the gates were thrown open and forgiveness and rest came to her.

Not a Target of That Kind.

One of the deputy commanders of the state naval force employed to prevent the depredations of oyster pirates in Chesapeake bay, says a writer in Harper's Weekly, accepted the captaincy of one of the sloops, because it was an easy berth and the pay was sure. His duties consisted in sailing over his district and avoiding pirates. One fateful day he fell in with a lot of depredators, and, before he could get away, they were impolite enough to fire at his boat. Acting quickly, he put on all his canvas, and sailed shoreward with all possible speed. When he reached the harbor, he went promptly to the telegraph office, and sent his resignation to Annapolis. A week later Commander Seth met him and asked him why he had resigned. "General Seth," he replied, "during the war I paid three hundred dollars for a substitute, and, at my time of life, I have too much self-respect to allow myself to be shot by an oyster-pirate."

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease.—Henry Bilgus, U. S. Pension Atty., Washington, D. C.

For eight years I have suffered from catarrh, which affected my eyes and hearing; have employed many physicians without relief. I am now on my second bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, and feel confident of a complete cure.—Mary C. Thompson, Cerro Gordo, Ill.

BUFFALO BILL'S TITLE.

How He Defended It in a Buffalo Shooting Contest.

The fistic encounter between Fred May and Colonel W. F. Cody which occurred in a Washington hotel recently attracted widespread attention on account of the notorious and picturesque personalities of the participants. Fred May comes of one of the most aristocratic New York families and has been conspicuous in the most select circles of metropolitan society. He has gained greater publicity, however, by figuring in frequent brawls like that with Colonel Cody, and a short time ago narrowly escaped being sent to Sing Sing for assaulting a New York policeman.

Colonel Cody is known to international fame as Buffalo Bill, the scout, sharpshooter and showman—a veritable dime novel hero in the flesh. Cody was bred on the plains and killed his first Indian when he was 11 years old. He served during the war as a scout in the Seventh Kansas regiment, called "the Jayhawkers," and after the conclusion of hostilities returned to the wild life on the plains, taking a contract to supply meat to the men constructing the Kansas Pacific railroad. Under this contract he killed 4,280 buffaloes and earned $500 a month and the sobriquet of "Buffalo Bill."

He clinched his claim to the title in a buffalo shooting contest with his rival, Billy Combs, whom he defeated by a score of 60 to 40. "Crud 'spart," this, where the dull brutes were "rounded up" and slaughtered like cattle in an abattoir, but we must remember the time and the excitement of a personal challenge. There is no record of Bill again shooting buffaloes for amusement.

In 1868 he was made chief of scouts under General Sheridan in the war against the Dog Soldier Indians, and he did invaluable service as a guide over regions utterly unknown to the military. During four years he remained at Fort McPherson, where he arranged buffalo hunts for many visiting easterners—foreigners, too, among them the Grand Duke Alexis.

In 1872 he went to New York, fell in with some actors and went on the stage. His career since that time is well known to all readers who are interested in it.

DANGEROUS CARESSES.

Divers Fight Desperately to Escape the Embrace of the Devilfish.

"The devilfish is the diver's greatest danger," said T. P. H. Whiteaw, an experienced diver, in conversation with a San Francisco Chronicle reporter. "Where a diver is working alone these devilfish are really dangerous, though where there are others down with him there isn't any great danger, as the divers could cut the devilfish to pieces before he could injure a man or tangle his apparatus. The fact that the fish discolors the water makes it impossible for the diver to see what to do when he is attacked and makes him feel the danger of the dark. One of them caught me once while working off the Farallones, but it was a little one only about six feet long, and I cut off its tentacles as fast as he put them on me.

"They'll fight hard enough when attacked, but they do not seek a man to injure him. If the diver happens to come upon one of them when he is at work, it is apt to fasten to him and draw him into its embrace. But they have no power to injure a man except by crushing and rending, as their mouths are only the size, shape and strength of the beaks of cockatoos. Their power to rend is not sufficient to tear a man limb from limb, but of course they might kill a diver by tangling his tube and shutting off the air. They have little swimming force, and all these stories about their towing large vessels are bosh. Their power is in muscular contraction, and before they can exert it they must first fasten to a rock or some heavy object. Even then their strength is not tremendous.

"I made a test of one which was on our pontoons in Discovery bay in 1884. It fastened to a rock which weighed while submerged just 70 pounds. When out of the water, it weighed 200 pounds. The devil fish could lift the rock to the surface and partially out of water, but was not strong enough to lift it entirely free. This fish was 11 feet 4 inches from tip to tip, and I estimated his rending power at about 200 pounds because he couldn't lift the 200 pound rock.

"I don't think the devilfish can see through the black fluid it emits when disturbed any more than a man can, but it has much more power of feeling, and a man has to cut very lively to lop away those tentacles.

"Of course there are sharks about the wrecks—plenty of them. But I never knew one to attack a diver with a suit on. I think the escaping air bubbling from his helmet scares the fish away. Then, too, each diver carries a knife, and a shark would be no match for him. The largest man eater I ever saw along this coast was 11 feet long, though the bone sharks run as high as 40 to 50 feet in length. They are harmless, however, as far as man is concerned. The little pilotfish, which goes ahead of the man eater, pointing the way, never approaches a diver, so the shark doesn't attack him, though the attack will come quick enough once the diving suit is removed.

"Sea lions are also quite dangerous to the diver, though they never attack him or injure him intentionally. But once a sea lion gets after a fish he doesn't stop for anything, and in passing a diver is apt to knock him over and tumble him all in a heap. The diver, with all his weight, is a mere nothing in the sea lion's path.

"The whales are harmless. Sometimes they come and play about the wreck, but they show little curiosity regarding the divers and never offer an assault.

"Do I ever find any treasure? Very little. I hear of a great deal, but when it comes to finding it, it isn't there. People generally manage to save their gold and jewelry, and then they say they lost everything with the ship. The divers search the trunks and chests, but rarely come across anything of large value."

Great Northern Trains Delayed.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 16.—A Great Northern passenger train arrived here last night from the east, a week overdue, having been delayed by snow in the Cascade mountains. ### Warns Chinese Converts.

HONG KONG, March 16.—A recent proclamation issued by the governor of the province of Kiang-Si reminds native converts to Christianity that they are still Chinese subjects, and on the other hand nonconverts are exhorted to consider the former still as brethren, and to put aside further doubt and suspicion in regard to them. Converts are warned, however, against relying, because of their entrance into a foreign faith, too much on foreign protection, for in that case they will be punished with the utmost vigor.

Detecting Dynamiters.

Chemistry is offering a means to oblige would-be dynamiters to betray themselves should they try to carry about hand grenades and cartridges. It is to mix dynamite with certain salts that give out a stench, and plunge cartridges into a solution of these chemicals. The fetid smell thus caused is not to be got rid of, and is communicable. A person carrying this infernal machine, or who had carried or handled one, unless with leather gloves which had been taken off with great care, would be at once detected by the odor.

HE WAS IDENTIFIED.

But It Took a Deal of Time to Convince the Dubious Bank Clerk.

A well-dressed man went into a Buffalo bank and walked up to the window presided over by the paying teller. He handed a check to that individual and said: "I have here a check for $50 which I wish you would cash."

The paying teller looked at the check and then at the man. "You will have to be identified," he said.

The well-dressed man was prepared for this. "I don't know a soul in Buffalo," he said, "but I have a lot of letters addressed to myself." He pulled out a package of letters and showed them through the window.

The paying teller examined the addresses, looked at the check again, and said: "That is not sufficient. You will have to be personally identified."

"But there isn't a man, woman or child in Buffalo who knows me from a trolley car," persisted the well-dressed man. "Here, here is my key-ring. Look at the name on that tag."

The paying teller saw that the name on the check and the name on the tag were the same. "I am sorry," he said, "but our rules are very strict. I can't pay this check on such an identification. Excuse me, but you may have stolen both letters and key ring and check."

The well-dressed man was worried. "I've got to have that money," he said, "to get out of town with, and I have to get out of town this afternoon."

Then he desperately tore open his vest and showed his initials on his shirt. "There," he said, "do you think I stole the shirt, too?"

"May have," answered the paying teller, laconically.

The well-dressed man was very angry. He walked around the bank for awhile and then was struck by a sudden thought. He took off his coat and vest and rolled up his left shirt sleeve and the sleeve of his undershirt. Then he stuck his bare arm through the window and shouted: "There, you dod-gasted chump! Do you see those initials tattooed there in blue ink? Do you think I stole them, too?"

The paying teller paid the money without another word.

THE GIANT BUSINESS.

It Is Played Out for Big Men Who Do Not Have Big Wives.

Seated on the back of a butcher's wagon was a heavily-built blonde young farmer. There was nothing exceptionally peculiar about the blonde young farmer except that as he sat on the wagon and dangled his legs over the tailboard his feet rested on the ground. In addition to this, good-sized men who came near the blonde young farmer seemed immediately to become dwarfed by comparison to the size of the small boys.

"My name is Silas Fisher, and I belong to Lynden, Penn.," said the modern Goliath. "I used to be known as the Great Canadian giant when I traveled with Barnum, Forepaugh, Robbins and other circuses shows. I stand seven feet high in my socks, and am 30 years of age and weigh 245 pounds. I was born in Beverly, I work for a farmer out there now. The giant business is played out. I traveled six years with shows, and used to get from $25 to $50 a week. It was a lousy life. Nothing much to do, and saw lots of the world traveling about. What's the matter with the business now? Well, I don't know. There ain't no call for giants any more, somehow. Not unless you have a wife. Giants don't get any more than $10 a week and it don't pay. When you have to get a new suit of clothes costing $100, pay another $80 for an oil painting of yourself, then pay your fare to Philadelphia or Chicago and your board there for a couple of weeks before the show starts—there ain't no money in it at $10 a week. Shields is the only giant in the giant business now, but he's got a wife six and one half feet high. I ain't got no wife so I come home."

Gold and Silver Under a Town.

The residents of Tacoma fear that their city will be torn up and undermined through the discovery of a valuable gold and silver quartz lode running under its most thickly populated portion. The ledge was uncovered recently seven feet below the surface by a man who was digging a cellar. Some of the quartz rock thrown out of the excavation, the assayer reports, carries $151 in silver and $27 in gold per ton. The indications are that the ledge is eight feet wide. Houses worth from $3,000 to $10,000 stand over the ledge and the owners are wondering if it will pay to pull them down and try to dig up the precious metals.

One of the shortest wills on record, a document containing but forty-two words, was filed for probate in San Francisco recently. The maker of the will, Mme. Lerda, devised a large estate to her husband.
